Experience

Magdalena Głowacka – Dziedzic specializes in real estate, labor and civil law (substantive and procedural). Before joining our team she had gained her professional experience in several law firms, including nearly ten years in law firm specializing in capital market law.

Magdalena has wide experience in the field of providing comprehensive legal services related to real estate. She advised domestic and foreign entrepreneurs, including, inter alia, significant commercial companies and leading investment fund management companies. She conducted due diligence reviews of real estates, drafted and negotiated various investment and development agreements as well as leases and tenancy agreements. Magdalena also provides comprehensive advice in the field of obtaining permits and decisions relating to the development and operation of investments. She was responsible for providing legal assistance in numerous court and administrative proceedings related to real estates, including those related to legal issues of nationalization.

In the field of labor law she has been involved in advising clients on restructuring processes, drafting employment contracts and management contracts, conducting court disputes and negotiations. Her broad experience also includes advising in the field of personal data protection and commercial insurance law.
